About the Conference

Sacred knowledge and scientific imagination two pillars of human intellect have dynamically interacted to shape civilization. Sacred knowledge, rooted in philosophy, spirituality, and moral awareness, has guided ethical and existential understanding, while scientific inquiry, grounded in observation and experimentation, has revolutionized material life. Reconnecting these dimensions is essential for building a sustainable and equitable world amid ecological and moral crises. The envisioned International Conference seeks to provide a global platform for interdisciplinary dialogue bridging ancient wisdom and modern science. The conference highlights the importance of Indian Knowledge System (IKS), encompassing Vedic sciences, Ayurveda, Yoga, mathematics, astronomy, architecture, linguistics, philosophy, governance and many more. By fostering intercultural understanding and offering policy insights for moral and sustainable growth, the conference aims to integrate indigenous and scientific worldviews. Ultimately, it reaffirms that knowledge whether sacred or scientific is a living continuum guiding humanity toward ecological balance, spiritual fulfillment, and moral harmony.
